

At the event, the participants will be split into smaller groups, each with a facilitator. The facilitator's job is to help the participants consider and discuss the questions posed. Facilitators will remain neutral, simply helping the group voice their own opinions, and explain the process throughout the day. Facilitators will be briefed in the process, and led by Lead Facilitator Kath Fisher.

The facilitators will come from a variety of background too, from the University of Technology, Sydney, our sponsors PricewaterhouseCoopers, National Australia Bank and other organisations with experience in facilitating discussions.

Facilitator biographies and photos

Frequently Asked Questions for Facilitators